Precision Conversions Receives Award From SF Airlines for One 757-200PCF

PORTLAND, OR, -- July 9th, 2009 -- Precision Conversions, LLC (Precision) is pleased to announce that the company has received an award to provide SF Airlines with their first full 15-pallet position 757-200PCF. Based in Shenzhen, P.R. China, SF Airlines recently purchased the Rolls-Royce powered B757-200 (MSN 24401) and will operate the aircraft upon conversion completion scheduled for November 2009.

The aircraft is being converted by Flightstar Aircraft Services in Jacksonville, FL.

Steven Thomas, Precision Conversions' President stated, "We are extremely pleased that another customer has chosen the Precision Conversions 757-200PCF based on its operating efficiency and the industry's lowest Operating Empty Weight." He went on to say, "We look forward to becoming the conversion partner of choice for SF Airlines as they expand their fleet."

Precision Conversions has redelivered a total of 21 conversions operating in Europe, North and South America, India, Africa, and P.R. China.
