Precision Conversions Receives 757-200PCF Order from DHL

PORTLAND, OR, -- June 28th, 2007 -- Precision Conversions, LLC (Precision) is pleased to announce that the company has received an award to provide DHL with their first full 15-pallet position 757-200PCF. The Rolls-Royce powered, ex-VIM Airlines aircraft (MSN 27598) will commence modification at the Flightstar Aircraft Services facility in Jacksonville, Florida this week and will be re-delivered in October, 2007. The aircraft is owned by DHL's European Air Transport, but is expected to be operated by Blue Dart Aviation based in Chennai, India.

DHL's Airline Director, Gordon Olafson, said that, "The Precision Conversions 757-200PCF, with its weight enhancements, is the right product at the right time to support our expanding global operations, especially in India."

Steven Thomas, Precision Conversions' President stated, "We are extremely excited to receive this award from one of the world's most respected express and logistics companies and we certainly look forward to supporting DHL's expanding network in the future."

Precision Conversions has re-delivered 12 conversions to date and currently has 2 aircraft in work. The company holds 6 firm orders and contracts on more than 47 options for its 757-200PCF conversion.
